

Experiential walk with a focus on perception and sharing of experiences by Ajauksia-group in Brighton in the conference of AoMo 31st in August 2018.

Marks in the view and a trace of the landscape

©Photos by Heikinaho & Lindy & Tella

What does a swing, opening, bounding, sediment, sensation of experience produce?

On the walk, we visit or stop in places that we won't so often go to in our everyday lives or we pass them with not so much giving attention to them. We will explore and look for places that have the tendency to become isolated or blind spots as the city changes. How are special features of urban nature and the built environment moulding our everyday actions, the personal or collective choices, and the specific identities and details of it. We will suggest tasks relying on our senses to examine our ways of experiencing the surroundings of the urban environment.

What does an encountering between two or more subjects, between subject and object produce?

How do you experience the importance of embodiment?

How do you experience the information you constantly receive through and with your senses?

What will happen when the spoken language is excluded, and to what position does the language of corpus settle down in these situations, especially when we talk again?

Walk takes place outdoors. Dress up by the weather!

Duration: 4 hours (It is included time then we are sharing our personal experiences together after walk.) Max. 15 participators!

Ajauksia-group's working is based on an equal decision making and anonymity. Collective working method is based on bodily and sensory exercises. The proposals suggest opportunities to create and gather experimental knowledge related to environment – nature and human subjects. We ask the participants to experience the suggestive sense of exercise within our own body, with own rhythm, listening our body.